

Seek $10,000 For Industrial Corporation

Meet Friday To Aid New Manufacturer

The Crawford County Industrial Development Committee will meet again this Friday to seek to raise $10,000 to aid a new manufacturer who wants to come to Grayling and with whom they held a meeting on Monday evening of this week.

The $10,000 will be used as a loan to the manufacturer who is putting up $30,000 of his own. The loan will be covered by redeemable stock and will earn 6 1/2 percent interest.

Harry Crawford, formerly of Rogers City, is the prospective new manufacturer and he hopes to install a nail making plant here. He already has several machines for the making of nails on order. The machines are valued at $8,000. Also wire stock has been ordered and he hopes to get into manufacturing soon to get in on the spring building market.

Present plans call for him to begin operation in the basement of the Thane Hendershot Supply Company. About 15 persons will be employed to start. In the future, Mr. Crawford hopes to build a building of his own and get into the drawing of his own wire from steel stock and also to enter the manufacturing of screws as well as nails. Mr. Crawford said that he thought this would take from 3 to 4 years to accomplish. By that time the firm would probably be employing from 50 to 75 persons.

A tool and die man will accompany the new firm here if all details can be worked out. He will help the new firm get started in the manufacture of nails and then will set up his own shop in the future.

The Industrial Development committee will attempt on Friday night to setup a non-profit industrial corporation in which local people may buy shares which in turn will lend the money to the new manufacturer to get his business started. In most cases as the money is repaid to the non-profit corporation by the borrower, the returned money is used to help another plant.

On the Industrial Committee which has been set up by the Crawford County Chamber of Commerce are: Dr. J. F. Cook, Charles D. Piper, William Joseph, John Alef, Willard Cornell, Clare Madsen, Jack Millikin, Donald Jansen, Dr. Ralph Hoffman, Ted Hausmann and Thane Hendershot.

Plan Post Office Additions

A telephone call from the office of Congressman Elford A. Cederberg in Washington, D. C. to the Avalanche on Monday morning announced that the Division of Facilities, Postal Department had given the "green light" to General Services Administration to proceed as soon as practical with a new loading platform and driveway at the Grayling Post Office.

Since the advent of highway postal service in and out of Grayling last year, the huge trucks have had trouble in getting into the present post office parking area.

1960 Census District Office Opened

Establishment of a district office for the 1960 Census of Population and Housing at 210 Federal Bldg., Bay City, Michigan was announced today by Director John E. Tharaldson of the Census Bureau's regional office at Detroit.

George W. Myles will be supervisor of the district office. He will direct a force of 15 crew leaders and 268 census takers in the following counties: Bay, Midland, Isabella, Mecosta, Oscoda, Ogemaw, Arenac, Alcona, Saginaw, Oshtemo, Crawford and Roscommon.

Taking the 1960 Census nationally will require the services of 160,000 enumerators, 10,000 crew leaders, and 400 district supervisors. The district supervisors, working under the general direction of the permanent regional field directors, are responsible for all phases of the census in their districts. Duties of the district supervisors include the recruiting of the crew leaders, obtaining space for crew leader training, recruiting and training a small office staff, reviewing the completed questionnaires, and direct supervision of the field canvass which begins on April 1.

Prior to the start of the census, all households will receive in the mail an Advance Census Report Form, a new census-taking device which is designed to speed up the field canvass and provide more accurate statistics. Distribution of this form, which contains the basic population and housing questions, gives the family a chance to assemble information about each member in advance of the census taker's visit.

Some 45 fellow employees and guests honored William Krage on his retirement as Chief of the Plumbing Section at Camp Grayling. Bill left cuts the cake at a surprise testimonial dinner held at Camp Grayling, December 23, 1958. Next to Bill is Bill Kinkert, Camp Superintendent. On December 29, 1958, William Krage performed an ordinary day of work as Chief, Plumbing Section at Camp Grayling. The only thing out of the ordinary was that Bill Kinkert, Camp Superintendent, seemed to be sticking around rather close.

Quitting time came and Bill prepared to go home. Mr. Kinkert came in, asked him to come over to the warehouse to check on some plumbing.

As he entered the warehouse there to his surprise were some 45 fellow employees and guests gathered to honor him upon his retirement.

The Grayling Vikings were to travel to Boyne City to meet the Pellston Hornets on Tuesday night. The Vikings will then come home to play at home to the Pellston Hornets on Friday night.

Boyne City defeated Pellston last Friday night 46-32. This was the first time the Vikings and white clad Vikings a tougher battle on their hands on Tuesday night than they will face on their home floor this Friday. The Rams after a shaky start this season have been improving with each game while the Hornets got off to a fine start but then appear to have fallen apart in their past couple of games. In other conference action last Friday night, Charlevoix had to all out to stop a band of fired up Harbor Springs Rams 64 to 45 and the Manelona Bruins surprised the Gaylord "Blue Devils" 58 to 47.

Other conference action at the week house on Monday evening, January 9th, saw the Pellston Hornets defeat the Harbor Springs at Manelona on Tuesday night. On Friday night, East Jordan will be at Boyne City, Manelona at Charlevoix and Harbor Springs at Gaylord.

The Frederic girls team and junior high team were to travel to Central Lake for a pair of games on Wednesday of this week.

Over the holidays, Frederic competed in the conference holiday tournament held at Rapid City. On Tuesday night, January 5th, the Eagles tangled with Central Lake and dropped them 45 to 39. With three minutes to go in the first half, the Eagles held a safe 21 to 14 lead but the Lakers came on with a rush to hold a half time tie, 21 to 21. The Eagles got back to work in the last half and went on to win. Jack Smith was high point man for Frederic with 20 points. Jansson added 12. Mertes 6, Thompson 5 and Pratt 2. Thompson hauled in 31 rebounds in the game.

On Thursday night, January 7, Frederic met Rapid City in the semi finals and lost in the tournament host team 47 to 44. Johnson was high point man with 14 points. Smith added 7, Mertes 6, Thompson 4 and Pratt and Redman 2 each.

Any recital of Michigan's eminent-ancestry mentions of our Indian heritage.
Copper-hued warriors, trappers and hunters who roamed the Michigan wilderness long before the arrival of the first whites were well aware of the region's natural attractiveness which later appealed so strongly to French explorers.
They had named the area Mishigamaw — "Great Water".
Michigan was inhabited by Indian tribes long before Columbus discovered America in 1492. Evidence of mounds and garden beds and primitive copper mining in the Keweenaw peninsula and on Isle Royale attest to prehistoric Indian habitation.

Three great tribes once shared dominion over Michigan territory. The Potawatomi were in control of most of southern Michigan below the Grand river... the Ottawa were in the upper half of the lower peninsula... and the Ojibwa (also called Chippewa) dominated the upper peninsula. Smaller tribes of Menominee, Huron, Sauk, Miami and Mascouten occupied isolated villages throughout the vast Michigan territory.
For 155 years the French governors in North America, from their Quebec headquarters, ruled the territory which is now Michigan... proudly counting a growing number of white mission settlements, fur trading centers and military posts which their agents established.
Sault Ste. Marie came first, in 1668... then St. Ignace in 1671... Crawford County Avalanché Thursday, January 14, 1960 the tiny outposts at St. Joseph, Port Huron and Niles... and Detroit in 1701.

Skirmishes between French and British, under way since 1689, led eventually to the First Treaty of Paris in 1763, giving England complete dominion over Michigan territory.
Toward the latter part of the eighteenth century another European power left a momentary imprint on Michigan history.
In 1781 a Spanish raiding expedition from the south seized the British fort at Milet, and the flag of Spain flew over that outpost for several days after the raiders withdrew.
Niles is today known as the City of Four Flags, the only spot in Michigan which has been under the flags of France, Great Britain, Spain and the United States.
Otherwise, the British Union Jack flew unchallenged over Michigan soil for 20 years until the Second Treaty of Paris in 1783, ending the Revolutionary War for America. Independence, ceded Michigan territory from Britain to the United States.
President Thomas Jefferson's choice to govern Michigan after it was accorded separate territorial status on June 30, 1800, was General William Hull, an easterner and a heroic figure of the American Revolution.
After Hull's ill-fated leadership of American forces in a short skirmish with British troops in the War of 1812—during which he surrendered Detroit to the British—he was replaced on Oct. 13, 1813, by the younger and more vigorous Brig. Gen. Lewis Cass. Largely because of the influence of General Cass, Michigan was ready for admission to the Union in 1837—the 20th state, represented by the 20th star in the flag of the United States.

The young state chose 24-year old Stevens Thomson Mason for its first governor.
Actually, Michigan had itself adopted state government in 1835 when the first state constitution was ratified and state officers elected.
But southern antagonism in Congress toward accepting another non-slave state and boundary dispute with Ohio over a strip of land five to eight miles wide between the two states delayed Michigan's entry into the Union until January 26, 1837.

The slavery issue was resolved by balancing the admission of Michigan as a free state with Arkansas as a slave state. Michigan lost the wedge-shaped boundary strip (including Toledo) to Ohio, but was compensated by Congress with a grant of the 16,538 square miles, heavily timbered upper peninsula with its later-found fabulous wealth of iron, copper and other minerals.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Betz and family of Hemlock spent Saturday before last with his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Seales, Mrs. Betz's mother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Betz at Almer on New Year's Day. The Frank DeMott family spent Wednesday evening of last week at the Seales home.

Barb Schulze told us an interesting fact the other day. In the area formerly known as Wilmette, a suburb of Chicago, and in near by areas, she was never successful in locating a laundry having machinery large enough to wash her home by twelve shag rug. The family moved to Grayling and, do you know that, here she discovered that Bill's Laundry has the necessary equipment for the job. Pleased? Yes.

ence of General Cass, Michigan was ready for admission to the Union in 1837—the 20th state, represented by the 20th star in the flag of the United States.
The young state chose 24-year old Stevens Thomson Mason for its first governor.
Actually, Michigan had itself adopted state government in 1835 when the first state constitution was ratified and state officers elected.
But southern antagonism in Congress toward accepting another non-slave state and boundary dispute with Ohio over a strip of land five to eight miles wide between the two states delayed Michigan's entry into the Union until January 26, 1837.

The slavery issue was resolved by balancing the admission of Michigan as a free state with Arkansas as a slave state. Michigan lost the wedge-shaped boundary strip (including Toledo) to Ohio, but was compensated by Congress with a grant of the 16,538 square miles, heavily timbered upper peninsula with its later-found fabulous wealth of iron, copper and other minerals.

Future College Education Needs Thought Now

Have you a child, a relative or a young person in whom you are very interested? If so, you are doing less than your best for him unless you spend some time right now thinking about his college education.

Training beyond the high school level will become more and more of a problem for Michigan's young people in the immediate future because of two factors. First, the population is growing at a rapid rate. W. M. Kiplinger in his "Boom and Inflation Ahead," estimates that Michigan will grow 43% or some 3,157,000 people by 1970. Second, a steady increase in the percentage of young people attending college exists so that we have a higher percentage of a larger number enrolling.

College education takes money and public supported institutions require an ever increasing amount of it. Since this is the case, those interested in seeing their young people educated should be interested in knowing the financial problems involved.

There are very few who state they oppose college training, but there are those who think that too much money is spent on education. To evaluate this type of criticism each person needs to know facts of the situation. Listed below are some of the more common questions university administrators are asked with the answers they give.

It can be stated too, that university officials prefer to be asked questions about why things are done as they are done. An opportunity to answer precludes misunderstanding and the spreading of inaccurate information.

Why does the state operate colleges and universities?
Advanced education is made available by the state in the long held belief that such training benefits not only the individual, but all society.

Why do you build athletic facilities but not classrooms?
Athletic facilities can be built with little financial difficulty because they produce income. Profit from football, and basketball, the only other college sport that some times pays its way, is used to finance other physical training: baseball, track, swimming, fencing, golf, tennis and intramural sports. Such building permits an institution to offer better physical training for the entire student body than would otherwise be possible.

Why don't you raise tuition? If the public supports the principle that education should be available to all at little or no cost, care must be taken that tuition costs do not automatically eliminate many students who come from poor families. In addition, the state and individuals in the state benefit several ways from its colleges without direct cost. Research conducted at state institutions has proved of immense value. Institutions offer direct public service that is constantly used by Michigan's citizens and organizations.

How much does it cost for a student to spend a year in college? A student needs between $1,200 and $2,000 per year, depending on his living level and the courses studied.

How much of the institutional expense is borne by the student? Student fees make up about 30% of a university or college income. The state appropriates about 75% of the other 5% is made up of charges for services, utilities and incidental income.

Why do so many students drive cars?
This is a common question for university administrators. In answer they point out that a car is no longer a luxury, but often an economic necessity. More students live off campus than ever, driving from home to classes. A higher percentage are married.

A substantial number of students must drive to work after classes or for the weekend. There is less public transportation, so remind college officials, if a student is to get around, he must have his own transportation.

Are buildings built "at no expense to the public" operated at no expense to the public?
That depends on the building. Dormitories, which are self liquidating, pay their own utility and maintenance. Buildings donated for institutional use are maintained at state expense.

The understanding which existed over the years is that the legislature would provide money for operating expenses or capital expense and specify which is to be used for which. In general, student fees augmented by legislative grants have been used for operating. The state financial situation being what it is, there has been very little appropriated for buildings.

The legislature while not able to provide for capital needs, has not been able to come up with plans where the institutions can make long term commitments for loans to be repaid from student fees. Universities are unable to proceed without definite agreement for fear of making commitments which they cannot live up to.

There is much thinking about ways to solve this dilemma so that buildings can be built soon as they must be if campuses are to accommodate the growing student bodies.

Aio Buildings — unnecessarily high?
There is always room for argument on this point. Administrators take a firm stand that buildings are built economically as possible, to last a long time and be maintained for as little as possible.

Some of the buildings approaching and over a century old support this claim. Visitors sometimes think a building "too fancy" but to reach a conclusion based on fact requires more than a superficial look.

Higher education is a problem which will become more acute. Educators have long urged that more people become more concerned with it. For the most part the public has been dealing with more immediate if not more pressing problems.

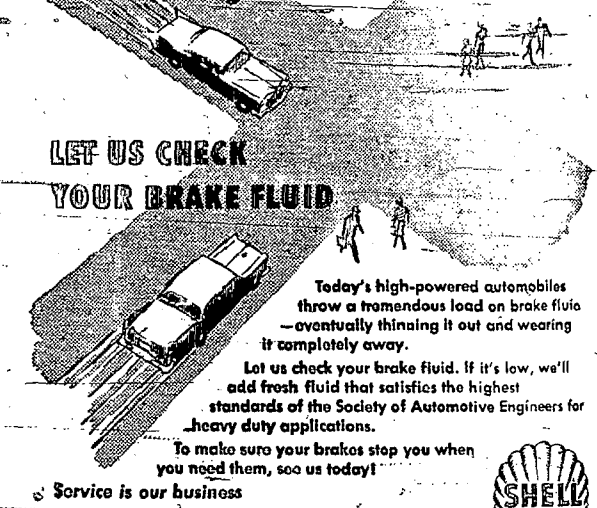

But time is going by, and if Michigan's young people are to receive the kind of education our position in the world demands, there must be some changes in the institutions which are to provide that education.

"Age Of The Shoddy"

"This was the era, domestically, when everything was half done; the era, in foreign affairs, when nothing was done right because nobody seemed to care enough to exercise the foresight and take the pains to see that it was done right. This was the time when the job on the car was always half finished, the yardwork was overpriced and underdone, the bright new gadget broke down a week after you got it home, the prices climbed higher and higher as the quality got less and less, and the old-fashioned rule of a fair bargain for a fair price was indeed old-fashioned, for it never applied to anything. The great Age of the Shoddy came upon America after the war, and Everybody Wants His became the guiding principle for far too many."

Thus Allen Drury describes the postwar era, in his remarkable novel "Advise and Consent" — a work in which he uses the vehicle of fiction to present an extraordinarily revealing picture of Washington's political, diplomatic and social worlds.

The accuracy of his indictment is undeniable. Yet, in the immediate postwar years, it was possible to find seemingly valid excuses. The relaxation of war tensions resulted, naturally enough, in emotional and financial excesses. An attitude of "live for today and never mind tomorrow" became general. On the purely material side the lifting of wartime restrictions on industrial production created an eager and apparently insatiable market for almost anything, no matter how poor the quality or exorbitant the price.

Had this sorry situation spent itself in a reasonable time there would have been small cause for worry. But who can honestly deny that the dark picture Mr. Drury paints is still — in the fundamentals, if not all the details — the picture that obtains in this country?

The problem, of course, is a moral problem. The Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Michigan, the Rt. Reverend Richard Emrich, speaks for churchmen of all the denominations when he says: "Everywhere I travel I hear arguments, but I never hear a moral argument, with someone saying, 'this is wrong, or unjust, or dishonest, and I will have nothing to do with it.' I think we are floundering as a people."

And there lies the tragedy. For the basic strength of any nation is its moral strength. All the weapons, all the productive capacity, all the money on earth, cannot save a people from ultimate destruction if their moral fiber decays, their national character rots, and they sink into an abyss of material cynicism, indifference, selfishness, avarice, greed.

A short time ago the television scandals, centering around rigged quiz shows, captured the national headlines and were publicized the world around. The Saturday Evening Post has devoted a full-page editorial to the matter in which it makes a big and often overlooked point. It offers no excuses for the deceit — "those who have been damned by the revelations deserved to be damned." But, the Post also says "... we believe that the importance of their guilt has been wildly exaggerated, the significance of their guilt almost wholly overlooked ... What is important is that we recognize the television scandals for what they are — a symptom of the declining standards of moral behavior in the United States, that twinge in the national belly that warns of deep-seated malignancy in the body politic." And those declining standards, it goes on, can be found in some form and in some degree virtually everywhere — in schools, professions, the labor unions, business and the government.

So much for the indictments. There is a bright side. It is found in the fact that more and more people, in public and private discussion, are talking about the problem, thinking about it, worrying about it. An astute English observer of the American scene observed that the television mess may prove to be of enormous benefit — by awakening the American people to the extent and character of moral decay, and removing the blinders from their eyes. The American people have been awakened to many kinds of dangers in the past, and have met them with wrath, with courage and with understanding.

And that is the hope — that there will be a moral revival in this country, a cleaning of dirty houses. Failing that, everything else is doomed to fail.

Interesting Events In Grayling 23 Years Ago

INTERESTING ITEMS OF NEWS GATHERED FROM THE FILES OF THE AVALANCHE OF 23 YEARS AGO

January 14, 1937

A project of unusually broad scope and utility, the development of the department of conservation's Grayling Fish Hatchery, has been completed for this year by crews of CCC Camp Ausable under the direction of Foreman Joe Godfrey. Work started in April and continued through October. While the project consisted principally in preparing an area north of the present rearing ponds for future construction of 12 more ponds, Godfrey's boys completed two ponds with concrete walls and bulkheads and some other work at the site of the present development. Approximately seven acres of land across the county road to the north of the Hatchery, mostly swampy area, required most of the work. It was brushed and cleaned out, leaving only desirable trees standing, and raised 18 inches in elevation with dirt from the new hatchery building excavation. Cedar, spruce, balsam and pine were transplanted into the area. Long, sloping banks were developed from the road to the waters and sodded. A rustic, winding, scenic path, elevated above surrounding growth, was constructed to follow the stream. Three rustic bridges with spans of 43, 15 and 9 feet were built over the stream. Within the old hatchery grounds three more rustic bridges of 45, 40 and 39 feet were built, one being under the county road bridge. A 220 foot retaining wall four feet high was built of field stones along the eastern boundary of the grounds to prevent erosion into the ponds. The bank was then sloped and graded. During the summer months countless visitors witnessed the work of the CCC boys, and were loud in their praise of both quality and quantity of work done. Engineers have also commended Godfrey and his crew

Grayling High School's Green and White basketball organization, the forgotten team before the Boyne City Tuesday night game, surprised both the dopsters and the Boyne five by holding them to an eight-point victory. The Boyne quintet had to play on their toes to defeat the Northern Lights and didn't hold more than a five-point lead at any time. The final score was 21-13, but it does not indicate the closeness or speed of the game.

It is significant to note that where one student walked on the Michigan State College campus in 1926, two students now walk. Practically every class room on the campus is used every hour of the day, Michigan State is now in about the condition of the Old Woman in the Shoe — she has so many children she doesn't know what to do. Dormitories are not on the legislative building program except incidentally. Crawford has two students enrolled, Kalkaska county.

TOMMY'S WORLD IS ALL UPSIDE DOWN...

Or maybe it's just the world that looks that way ... the world that forgets that polio is still a terrifying cripple.

Tommy Davey was stricken with paralytic polio when he was 14 months old. That was over four years ago. Arms, legs, chest muscles, all paralyzed.

His earliest memory is the iron lung and the world seen through a mirror.

What he sees is the white, hushed, institutional world of the hospital. But here he seems to be looking at you — at me — at all of us. He seems to be reminding us that polio is a costly cripple still.

Tommy is one of 50,000 polio patients receiving March of Dimes aid. Your help in the past literally kept him alive. Your help also enabled scientists to develop weapons against polio, like the Salk vaccine and advanced rehabilitation techniques.

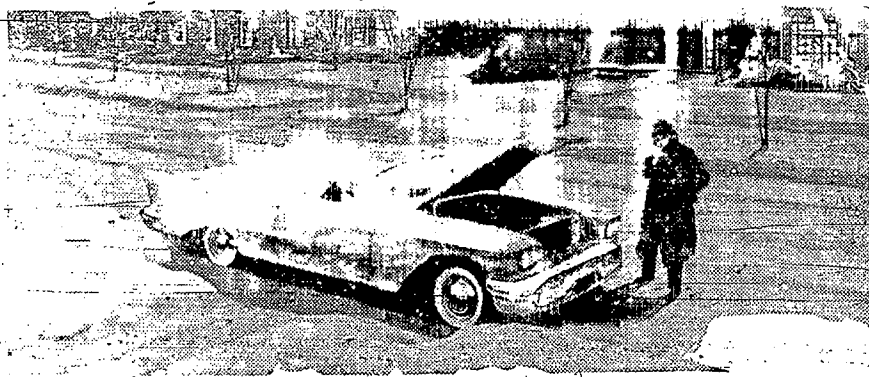

Your contribution to the NEW March of Dimes in 1960 offers new hope to polio victims. For sufferers like Tommy your help can make the world right side up again.

retirement from State service on December 31st.
Officers from the Quartermaster General's office in Lansing were guests. They were Lt. Col. Thomas Wilmer, Maj. Harold Clingen-smith. Also present was his former supervisor, George Schauble, Sr., who retired in January 1938 as Camp Superintendent.

Bill served 21 and a half years at Camp Grayling. He was first employed by the Military Establishment as a part-time employee in 1917. After his return from service in World War I, he worked seasonally until May 1938 when he was appointed Chief of the Plumbing Section.

Bill has seen Camp Grayling grow from its tent-and-horses era to the present pentomic division period. Many a latrine orderly has a kind word for the Chief, who always answers a call for help. Mr. Krage's devotion to his job can best be illustrated thus: In the winter of 1932, after a three-day blizzard, Mr. Schauble and Richard Lovely, the only people living on the post at that time, were laboriously shoveling paths to the garage and office. Roads were blocked and snow was knee high. In the distance they heard a loud "Hello", and down the railroad tracks trudged The Chief, who had walked the five miles from Grayling to get to work.

William Krage was born in Lamont, Illinois, on October 28, 1895. When he was fourteen he moved to Fletcher, Michigan with his father, sister and brother. There they established the Krage farm and on April 28, 1918 Bill entered federal service.

Overseas, a member of Co. L, 28th Infantry he was wounded at St. Mihiel on October 3, 1918. Discharged from service on April 23, 1919 he returned home to Fletcher and the Krage farm.

He is noted for his hearty vitality and sense of humor. Camp Grayling will miss The Chief, but his fellow employees wish him a most happy retirement, with plenty of time now to pursue his hobbies of hunting and fishing. To aid him in his hobby of hunting his fellow employees gave Bill a 22 cal. pump gun and case. Food for the testimonial dinner was prepared by the wives of the employees.
